

MILITIA ARRIVES AT CAMP ORLWAY

Hundreds Of Frederick People See District Guards Detachment—First Consideration At End of Three-Mile March Is "Grub."

By J. L. WRIGHT.

CAMP ORLWAY, FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 18.—Militia became very near the real thing when the 1,500 men in the District National Guard detached at Frederick at noon today for their annual encampment. They had to march from the depot to the camp ground, a hike of three miles.

Hiking that distance in heavy marching order with a weight of fifty pounds to the man proved a real trial to many of those who in ordinary city life spend about seven hours a day at a desk doing no more violent manual labor than that of wielding a pen. Those who have heard that "the pen is mightier than the sword" wish that an order might be issued to replace the rifles with quills. There was many a sore shoulder caused by the heavy rifles before camp was reached.

Some Use Cars.

The first of the special trains, made up of eight passenger cars, two coaches, and two stock cars, reached Frederick at 9:30. The supply cars on this, like those on the later trains, were taken to the camp on the siding, but the passenger coaches were unloaded in the city. One hundred and fifty men were taken on the street cars from the first train to the camp in order that a meal might be ready for the others at the end of their hike.

Leutenant McLennan piloted his company for the cars, saying the men would pay their fares individually rather than make the long hike.

The four companies of colored men were the first to leave Frederick on the march to camp.

Reception Is Quiet.

Hundreds of people lined the streets of Frederick to watch the troops march by, four abreast. There was no cheering and they received a quiet reception. The only tribute was paid by young America. Dozens of little boys, clad in khaki and with the regulation campaign hat, followed the troops, stretching their short legs in a vain endeavor to equal the long strides of the men.

The first consideration upon arrival in camp was "grub." After four days on traveling rations the Signal Corps and Field Artillery went on their regular field diet. The first train to arrive from Washington on the four special trains were given only a lunch of boiled ham, baked beans, coffee, bread, and milk.

Cases of evaporated milk are stacked to the ridge pole of the commissary tent. There is a 60-pound supply of butter, under "Uncle Sam's" allowance one pound of butter must do twelve of his warriors. The first fresh beef, ice, and butter are to arrive at camp daily.

Rollins Ordered Home.

Private Walter E. Rollins of the Field Artillery was ordered to his home in Washington today, as a result of injuries he received when bitten by a bulldog before leaving Washington. His condition is not serious.

The Signal Corps this morning entered actively upon the work of preparing for the arrival of the troops by train. Ditches were plowed all over the reservation, and the insulated telephone wires were buried in trenches. Connections are to be made with every company. At headquarters the telephone was erected, and this evening the daily formal of the camp, but no trouble was experienced by those in tents at Camp Orway.

The day is being devoted to establishing and polishing the camp. The spectacular work, such as artillery drill and firing, will begin tomorrow. It rained nearly all night, but the ground is not too wet.

The size of Uncle Sam's larder is attracting considerable attention among the people of Frederick, who are going to the grounds by hundreds.

Dr. Clarence A. Weaver, as major in the Hospital Corps, has established a filtered water supply with a capacity of over 300 gallons per hour.

The water is run from the supply pipes into 12 large whisky barrels that are mounted on a bench eighteen feet high. Alum and soda treatment causes precipitation, thus making the barrels improvised sedimentation basins. The outlet spigots being twelve inches above the bottom of the barrels, there is no danger of drawing off the sediment when the water is opened into the six Darnall filters below the barrels.

Each of these filters has a capacity of 50 or 60 gallons per hour, assuring sufficient drinking water for the entire brigade. Below the filters are twelve supply barrels, and from them the water is taken.

Dr. Weaver is sure there will be no danger of typhoid in the camp supply, and as for general sanitation of the camp every precaution is being taken.

The low spots on the reservation were saturated with oil and burned off yesterday before the arrival of the signal corps and battery of field artillery that moved overland from Washington. Today the camp hospital is being established.

Undistilled water is piped to every company for cooking and bathing. Shower baths are provided for the enlisted men and for the officers of every regiment.

When the signal corps and field artillery arrived yesterday not a man or the 10 reported for medical attention, showing that all had stood the unusual tests of the trip without serious results. Long before night the men had all their tents up as well as the shelter tents for the horses.

By last night everything was in readiness for the arrival of the four train-

OLD CABIN JOHN INN, WHERE PRESIDENTS DINED, TO BE SOLD

Famous Old Property In Hands Of One Family Forty Years.

Old Cabin John Hotel, the famous road house on the Conduit road, half-way to Great Falls, where Presidents of the United States from Grant to Roosevelt have been wont to journey for fish breakfasts and dinners of chicken a la Maryland, is on the market for sale, the first time since it was acquired by the father of the present proprietor in 1870.

In the last few years offers for its purchase have been made, and at least two large options have been given and forfeited, but not until the present time has the owner decided to dispose of the property and vacate it.

Grieved by the death of his brother, George, with whom he was associated in business since boyhood, and urged by other heirs of the estate to liquidate the property, William H. Bobinger, who lives at the road house and runs it, has given a Washington real estate firm, W. A. Craig & Co., directions to dispose of the whole estate of seventy acres. Mr. Craig leaves tomorrow for Boston to enter into negotiations with a prospective buyer.

A Capital Landmark.

Cabin John is one of the best known places about the Capital. It has a varied history. From a simple farm, when it was bought by Joseph Bobinger in 1870, then as a road house and hotel for Maryland farmers coming into Washington on the Conduit road, later as an amusement resort for Washingtonians, and again as a simple road house, Cabin John Hotel may now change its character again in the hands of a new owner.

The first building was erected on the property in 1873, the beginning of the present large hotel building. In 1888 improvements were made and the last building, the elaborate original glass corridor and organ rotunda of the south front, were built in 1900. Most of the amusement structures which were on the grounds ten years ago have been removed and only a few of the rustic cedar garden-houses have been allowed to remain.

The hotel itself is a large building of forty rooms, with many balconies and verandas for outdoor dining. It is richly furnished and two banquet rooms are surprising in their size and pretentious furnishing. It stands on the edge of Conduit road at the west end of the great Cabin John Bridge, said to be the longest single span of masonry in the world, over which is conveyed Washington's water supply in a nine-foot conduit. The road belongs to the United States and was built in 1865 in connection with the water conduit beneath.

Stables and Outbuildings.

There are stables and several other outbuildings. Ten acres of ground about the hotel and running down to the Chesapeake and Ohio canal to the south are laid out in a more or less formal garden. The treatment is rather that of a park where old shade trees, shrubs, vines, and flowers adorn winding paths through the grounds. Just beyond the canal is the Potomac, the wooded Virginia banks of which can be seen for miles from the south porch.

There are thirty-five acres of land to the west of the hotel. This is nearly all under cultivation. About ten acres lie on the north side of the road and the other fifteen acres adjoin the park. The topography of the ground and the beauty of the stone arch over Cabin John creek, with the hotel itself and its park make the whole one of the most picturesque country places about the District.

The place is about a mile farther up the road than the newly acquired country estate of Joseph Letter. His place is in Virginia, while the Cabin John is on the Maryland side.

Buyers Corner Property.

John French Simpson has purchased from Dr. Charles W. Richardson the property at the intersection of R and Seventh streets and Rhode Island avenue northwest. The property is a triangle with frontages of sixty-one feet on the avenue and 88 feet on R street, the apex being at Seventh street. A trust of $12,500 was put upon the property. The sale was made through the office of Thomas J. Fisher & Co., Inc.

Senator Gets Loan.

Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas has placed a deed of trust for $30,000 upon his property at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Church streets northwest, where he is building a home. The property has a frontage of 110 feet on Church street and about fifty feet on Sixteenth.

Buyers Residence.

Bentley W. Warren has purchased the residence at 1122 D Sales street northwest, opposite the Convention of the Visitation. The lot is 75,000 feet.

Back From Gibraltar.

The practice cutter of the Revenue Cutter Service is now at Gardiner's Bay, Long Island, after the summer cruise made for the training of the cadets of the service school at Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn. She arrived yesterday from Gibraltar and will remain at Gardiner's Bay four days before going to Fort Trumbull.

ALEXANDRIAN DIES ON TRIP IN THE EAST

William Bryant, Son of Capt. Herbert Bryant, Passes Away While In Massachusetts—Employed By Fertilizer Firm.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, ALEXANDRIA, VA., AUG. 18.

William Bryant, son of Capt. Herbert Bryant, a prominent resident of this city, died last night near Boston, Mass., where he had gone on a business trip. For several years Mr. Bryant had made his home in Baltimore, being connected with the management of a fertilizer concern there.

He was about thirty-five years of age and was regarded as an especially brilliant young man. His wife, who, with their little daughter, is at present on an European trip, was immediately notified of his death.

The body will be brought to Alexandria tomorrow morning, and funeral services will probably be held from the residence of his father, on North Washington street, Sunday.

After numerous witnesses had been heard who testified in the case of Mrs. O. H. Pettit, charged by Officer Frederick Garvey with interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duties, when he attempted to put an unlicensed dog in the dog wagon, a fine of $5 was imposed upon her. Her attorney, Noel Garner, noted an appeal.

The testimony was to the effect that Mrs. Pettit used unprintable language to the officer when he resented her interference. Taking hold of her arm, he placed her on the seat of the dog wagon and drove her to the station, where she arrived in a hysterical condition. Witnesses for the defendant asserted that Garvey used undue force in making the arrest, placing a torn shirt waist in evidence.

For refusing to repeat the words used by Mrs. Pettit toward the officer, which he stated he "could not use in the presence of ladies," Frank Jackson, a witness for Garvey, was ordered locked up, but at the conclusion of the case was released.

The police of this city have received notice from J. R. Allison, sheriff of Fairfax county, of a reward of $50 for the arrest and conviction of the persons who assaulted and robbed aged Mrs. John McClintock of $700 near Annandale last Sunday.

Accused of mutiny on the steamer St. Johns, Douglas Hawkins, a colored deckhand, was held for the action of the grand jury of Fairfax county, in a court held by Justice Stuart in Alexandria yesterday afternoon.

After two years of suffering as a result of the explosion of a fire cracker in her hand, little Margaret Nugent, the eight-year-old daughter of Harry Nugent, is back in the city from her confinement in Providence Hospital, Washington. Many times her life was despaired of and it was necessary to resort to skin grafting, but the little girl bore her suffering patiently, earning the name of "Angel Margaret" from the attendants at the hospital.

While engaged at work at the Brom-law brick yards at Hunting Creek yesterday, James H. Pettit, of this city, was overcome by the heat, and removed to the Alexandria Hospital. His condition was stated to be greatly improved this morning.

Committees composed of citizens of West End and of Fairfax county met this morning in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce and discussed plans for the erection of an overpass bridge at what is known as Telegraph Crossing, at the intersection of the Washington-Southern and Southern railway tracks.
